Since 1968, Parklex has provided architects, decorators, master builders and builders with a wide range of solutions with their products manufactured from natural wood for use in facings, flooring and ceilings. Parklex is a dynamic company on the cutting edge, with a professional team that is focused on the needs of their clients.

Parklex's constant work and dedication in all areas of development and production are combined to offer a product and service that meets the standards of even the most demanding architects.

Each type of Parklex is subjected to a different production process, depending on its final application: interiors, exteriors, damp areas, etc. The base is always high-density laminated wood with a paper fiber core that has been treated with thermosetting resins and compressed at high pressure and temperature. The surface is always made from 100% natural wood, treated according to its application: to resist special weather conditions or to perfectly resist the intensive use it might receive in interiors. Perfect adaptation to the project design is an essential requirement. That's why the technology used to manufacture Parklex allows us to apply different finishes, all in natural wood, to integrate them completely into the environment that is required for each project. The variety of finishes and colors in natural and dyed panels sets Parklex apart as a result of its versatility, making it the ideal covering from any type of project. Rigorous testing guarantees Parklex's excellent performance. The best architects in the world use Parklex in their most emblematic creations. Why is this so? Because they feel comfortable and at ease, and because the results do not disappoint them. Without a doubt, it is because at Parklex we have been working for over 15 years on a daily basis with architects from all over the world, including, for example, Santiago Calatrava, Frank Gehry, Norman Foster, Jean Nouvel and Nicholas Grimshaw, adapting our range to their requirements. This has made Parklex the natural wood covering of choice in many of the best quality and best-known projects in the world. This can only be achieved by a brand with an absolute guarantee, capable of offering the perfect product, totally adapted to their needs, with problem-free application.
